

Study Preparation Course in Dortmund

InterTraining and Dortmund University of Applied Sciences offer foreign applicants the possibility to attend a study preparation course (T-course for technical subjects) which leads to the right to study in Germany.

The offer is directed among others towards Chinese highschool graduates, which – according to German regulations normally do not have a possibility to attend state run preparatory colleges. FH Dortmund has a special admission to accept these applicants. This gives our program a very important comparative advantage. Please note: Applicants need to have passed gaokao with points level 2, though. Alternatively successful participation in TestAS with score 101 is also sufficient.

Participants from other countries please see the requirements on <http://anabin.kmk.org>
